Turks Show Renewed Activity on Gallipoli Peninsula But Are Unable to Make Any Impression on Allies' Trenches—Italians Still Hammering Away on Gorizia.

By the Associated Press.

London, Nov. 26.—The Serbian main army having been driven back to the borders of Albania and Montenegro, where they are being attacked by the Austro-Germans, the Bulgarians, with the assistance of Gen. von Gallwitz's forces, are now giving their attention to the Anglo-French troops. Important military developments may, therefore, be looked for on the Vardar river. The Bulgars appear to have abandoned definitely for the time being their advance on Monastir in order to attack the French positions on the Cerna, where fighting has already been reported. So far the French have held their positions, but dispatches from Salonika hint that it may be necessary to withdraw from Krivolak to the southwest, where British-French reinforcements are being concentrated. While the results of these movements are being watched with some anxiety, better news from the allies' point of view comes from the northern frontier of Bulgaria, where a big Russian army is massing.

It is reported that Gen. Alexei Koupotkin is to command this Russian army of invasion which will either be sent up the Danube or allowed passage through Rumania to attack Varna from the land side. Other Russian forces are being organized at Odessa and Sebastopol and will doubtless be sent either to the Bulgarian or Turkish coast.

It is reported from Switzerland that the Austro-Germans are sending reinforcements into the Balkans to meet this new Russian offensive, but other sources state that these reinforcements are en route to the western front because of the fact that the Balkan campaign is having a direct effect on all fronts. In Galicia the Austro-Germans are attacking in the hope of compelling the Russians to divert a part of the Bessarabian army thence. While the Austrians opposing the Italian offensive on the Isonzo are unable to get assistance, they are counter-attacking with terrific fury and have thus far prevented the Italians from capturing Gorizia, which had been hard pressed for nearly a week.

Late reports from Mesopotamia show that the British hold the battlefield of Ctesiphon and that the Turks are retreating to Diah, within ten miles of Baghdad. Prisoners taken by the British have been increased to 1500, while the British wounded alone number 2500. Troops engaged in this region are undergoing hardships unknown in other campaigns, there being a shortage of both food and water.

The Turks are showing more activity in the Gallipoli peninsula, where they made an attack on the allies' position, without however, making any gains.

Carranza to Visit Matamoros Today

By the Associated Press.

Brownsville, Texas, Nov. 26.—Gen. Alfredo Ricaut, recently given charge of the entire border from Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, to Matamoros, opposite here, a distance of 350 miles, arrived at Matamoros today. He will take command of the garrison here after the departure of Gen. Venustiano Carranza, probably tomorrow night. He will have a greater distance of frontier in his charge than any other Mexican commander in many years. Ricaut, of French descent, is popular on both sides of the river.

Elaborate preparations have been made in Matamoros for the reception in the first chief, expected there late tonight or tomorrow. Carranza will be the first ruler of Mexico to visit that city since the early 70's.

Lord Kitchener Would Get Italian Aid for Serbians

By The Associated Press.

Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the British war secretary, who was instrumental during his visit to Athens in bringing about a change in the situation between Greece and the entente powers favorable to the entente allies, now has gone to Rome.

There he has conferred with the premier, the minister of foreign affairs, war and the colonies and a representative of the Italian general staff on Italy's possible intervention in the struggle in Serbia.

There is no confirmation of the unofficial reports that the Italians already are landing forces at Avlona, Albania, to go to the aid of the Serbs. The situation in Serbia continues a most serious one. The invaders in the west daily are continuing their advance. The entire plain of Kosovo now is in their hands, according to Vienna. In the south unofficial advisers say the French have captured Brousis, west of Krivolak, from the Bulgarians, with whom they have been at grips for several days. This same dispatch adds that large Serb forces are marching toward

European War Brings Garden of Eden Back Into News After 5,675 Years

The Garden of Eden is again in the news after being more or less in the background ever since Eve used her feminine influences to persuade poor old Adam to eat that apple. British troops have encamped in the Garden of Eden in the Persian Gulf theatre of war, on the banks of the Euphrates and have named one place "Serpent Corner" and another "Temptation Square." The humor of the soldiers is defended by the London Times in a weighty editorial. Mesopotamia, which is said by historians to be the Garden of Eden, is famed for its fruitful date crops.

Special to the Morning News.

Corsicana, Nov. 26.—Rev. Dr. Culver of Corsicana preached a sermon to the Central Texas conference now in session here last night that literally took the great body off its feet.

The third day of the conference opened this morning with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. C. H. Booth of Georgetown. He read the ninth chapter of First Corinthians and delivered a prayer that was both searching and eloquent. The minutes were read and the roll called.

The following visitors were introduced to the conference: Rev. E. R. Barvus, Rev. S. A. Barnes, Rev. C. N. Smith and Rev. J. E. Binkley of the North Texas conference, and Rev. C. M. Simpson of the Texas conference.

The following were admitted on trial: J. L. Oliver, C. N. Davis, Rev. J. B. Berry was added to the auditing committee.

Thomas, A. E. Watson. The bishop remarked when the last name was called: "I take off my hat to that class. Every member of it has passed."

Nominations for the next meeting place were declared in order. Dr. W. B. Andrews nominated Waxahachie, saying that a Waxahachie-Giles County-Tennessee welcome awaited the delegates. Rev. Dr. Nelson nominated Weatherford, saying he did not have to go to Tennessee to get a welcome to Weatherford—a cordial Texas welcome awaits you at Weatherford. We will extend the same cordiality and hospitality that Corsicana has extended. When the applause had subsided he said, I cannot make it any stronger. More applause.

Rev. Dr. Nelson spoke in favor of Waxahachie.

Rev. M. Mussett said that he and Rev. John T. Neal were the only surviving charter members of the North-Texas conference which was organized at Waxahachie. He would like to go back there one more time.

All of the speeches sparkled with humor and bright repartee and eloquent descriptions of the town advocated, Judge D. F. Temple creating much amusement and pleasing his hearers immensely. He spoke for Weatherford.

Rev. Horace Bishop spoke earnestly and pleadingly for Waxahachie. He thought it would be out of taste to go to any other place.

When the ballot was taken Waxahachie was chosen as the next meeting place. Superintendent Burroughs of the Waco Methodist orphanage came over this morning with fifty of his children. They were met at the depot by the brass bands of the State and Old Fellows' orphan' home and were marched to the home of Rev. Abe Mulkey, where they were treated to refreshments and were then taken to the church where the conference was in session. Here Mr. Mulkey addressed the conference in the interest of the orphanage and took a collection of $111.80.

Rev. Robert Schuler of University church, Austin, preached a big crowd on the main business street this afternoon.

Germany Will Tax War Profit on Stocks

By The Associated Press.

Berlin, via London, Nov. 26.—The federal council has adopted a preliminary bill for taxing the war profits of joint stock companies and corporations. The measure does not levy a tax. This is left for another bill after the war. The present bill merely requires that companies carry as reserves half the profits earned in making war supplies and invest them separately from the ordinary resources, thus holding them in readiness for the final decision of the government.

Another bill deals especially with the Reichsbank. This measure compels taking half the net profits exceeding the average of the three years preceding the war.

Another Solomon Needed in Chicago

By The Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Two women today struggled in the court house for possession of a little boy. One was his mother and the other his adopted mother.

Before spectators could intervene, Cora Wethal, who is trying to recover legal possession of her boy, 3-year-old Vincent, and Mrs. Josephine Warner, who says she adopted him in the county court two years ago, each seized the child and sought to pull him from the grasp of the other. The child screamed and bailiffs parted the women. By agreement the little fellow was given into the custody of another woman until the case is decided.

SHIP ENGINEER SAYS QUESADA LOOKED FOR GERMAN WARSHIPS

JOHN OLSEN TESTIFIES CAPTAIN SUHREN PROMISED HIM "A MILLION DOLLARS" FOR HELPING RIG UP WIRELESS APPARATUS TO TALK WITH CRUISERS.

DRAFT DRAWN ON HOCHMEISTER

Trial for Alleged Conspiracy to Deceive Government Adjourned Until Monday so That United States Attorneys Might Have Opportunity to Examine Mass of Documents.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 26.—The trial of Dr. Karl Buehn and his associates in the Hamburg-American line for alleged conspiracy dragged somewhat today with the government attempting to show that at least one more vessel sailed from American waters to aid German cruisers with supplies than the defendants are willing to admit.

This vessel, the government contends, was the Maria Quesada, which sailed from Newport News, Va., Dec. 16, 1914, for Valparaiso with coal and other supplies aboard.

John Olsen, ship's engineer, testified the Quesada sailed with dynamite (not declared on the manifest, the government alleges) which were made part of a wireless apparatus rigged up on the little steamer twenty-four hours out of port. This, he said, was so that they might pick up code messages from the Germans. Captain Hans Suhren took aboard a German code book and some papers, the nature of which Olsen did not know.

Big Pay Promised.

For his part in rigging the wireless, Olsen testified, Suhren promised to see he was paid "a million dollars" and made "the next man to the kaiser in Germany." This was conditional on their reaching the German naval vessels with supplies.

Once when a British vessel was sighted, Olsen said, Captain Suhren, thinking the vessel was a man of war, rushed down to the engine room, the code book and papers in his hand and a white handkerchief over them.

"Hide these quick," Olsen quoted him as saying, "a British cruiser has been sighted. If they find these I'll be hung right away."

The Quesada sailed under both the Costa Rican and Norwegian flags, Olsen said. At Pernambuco the Norwegian consul called for their papers.

Ship's Papers Dropped Overboard.

"Captain Suhren put the papers in a bag," Olsen said, "and dropped the bag overboard. 'Did you see the trick I did?' he asked me. 'Then he told the Norwegian consul he had unfortunately lost his papers. There was some doubt about this and Suhren, who was anxious to get away, left at night during a heavy rain.'"

"Any high showing?" asked Roger D. Wood of the government counsel. "No, sir; we didn't even light a match."

The Quesada, it was brought out, failed in her errand because she neither sighted nor heard from German vessels.

Telegram to Hochmeister.

The defense strenuously objected to this testimony as not concerned with the defendants. Mr. Wood then introduced a telegram sent by Suhren to Adolf Hochmeister, one of the defendants, which read:

"Sailing today. Drafting on you from Reynier $1000. Wire Reynier you will accept. Communicate with 11 Broadway, room 801. Letter to follow."

The room mentioned was the New York headquarters of Captain K. Boy-Eg, the German naval attaché.

Two Ships Did Not Sail.

The steamers Fram and Sommerstad, Ralph J. M. Bullowa testified, did not sail from Philadelphia because it was intended they should, largely because captains demanded indemnity and guarantees.

"Hochmeister told me," Mr. Bullowa testified, "that the steamers were to meet German vessels off the coast of Brazil and transfer their cargoes to the German vessels."

John J. Turney of Philadelphia, through whom the defendants chartered the United States ship, was withdrawn from the stand temporarily so that the government might scan closely a mass of documents which he had reluctantly surrendered. The trial was adjourned till Monday. The case may be given to the jury by Thursday night.

German Deserter Interned for War

By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 26.—Heinle Schultz, who says he is a deserter from the German army, was ordered excluded from the United States by a special board of inquiry at Ellis Island today. Owing, however, to the fact that if he returned to Europe at present he would be imprisoned by the British, he was ordered interned at Ellis Island until the end of the war.

FORTY MEXICAN SNIPERS FELL BY AMERICAN BULLETS

After Taunting Troops on Arizona Side as Cowards Villa Soldiers, Evacuating Nogales, Commence Firing and Uncle Sam's Boys Answer With Deadly Effect.

PRIVATE STEPHEN LITTLES AFTERWARDS DIES

Carranza Forces Now Hold Nogales and It Is Reported That General Obregon Has Defeated Main Army of Rebel Chieftain—Accidental Brush With Carrancista Cavalry Brings Fatality—Villa Defeat Reported.

By The Associated Press.

Nogales, Ariz., Nov. 26.—Carrying out threats that they would fight Americans before they left the border, snipers posted in Nogales, Sonora, after Francisco Villa evacuated the town, opened fire today on soldiers of the Twelfth United States infantry posted at the border. The Americans, who had endured taunts of cowardice for a week, returned the fire. More than forty Mexicans were killed.

Three Americans were wounded, one of whom, Stephen Littles, died tonight. Another, Herbert Cates, is not expected to live. Arthur L. Sauge was shot in the foot. The American casualties were suffered in a brush with Carranza cavalymen mistaken for Villa troops as they dashed over a hill to enter the town. In the exchange of shots that followed three Carranza soldiers were shot. One of them, a courier sent to apprise Col. W. H. Sage, the American officer on the line, that the Carranza forces had captured the Mexican town just across the border, was killed. The other two were killed, one of them, a soldier, was killed in the town, where looting preceded the fighting.

The firing across the border continued intermittently between 11 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock this evening.

Obregon Holds Nogales.

Tonight Nogales, Sonora, was held by 6000 Carranza troops under Gen. Alvaro Obregon, who was reported to have defeated the Carranza forces which Villa attempted to escape at a point where Villa's troop trains were stalled twelve miles south. Nothing has been heard of the fate of Villa or his men.

On the American side, though great regret was felt over the casualties sustained by the United States troops, the fact that American soldiers had fought back when attacked eased a feeling of apprehension and existing since Villa took possession of Nogales, Sonora.

Col. Sage, whose order "Pick your men and fire," opened the engagement, was not first in command at the time. Col. W. C. Brown of the Tenth cavalry was his senior, but having arrived only a short time before the fighting, Col. Brown requested him to act, and he was on the line when an intense battle was fought. A woman wrested his rifle from her and fired at a party of American soldiers on duty in the street that divides the American and Mexican towns.

Villistas Commence Firing.

This seemed to be a signal for snipers. Their bullets began to fall thickly in the American town. The American officer promptly gave the order to fire but instructed the infantrymen not to harm any Mexican not engaged in sniping.

All last night the Villa troops as they prepared to evacuate taunted the American soldiers on the border, calling them cowards and daring them to fight.

Even after Gen. Acosta, a Villa subordinate, and Carlos Randall, Villa governor of Sonora, crossed the line and were given asylum by the United States, the American soldiers, with their outlawed chief threatened to force a fight.

Two hundred of them, ordered to get off an overloaded troop train early today made the way to the border. They began looting the liquor stocks of the numerous saloons. They became uncontrollable and the residents of the town began coming over the boundary line from America, where they were promptly put under martial law and drove crowds away from the danger zone. Soon after bullets began to fly across the border.

The snipers were silenced after the firing had lasted about ten minutes.

There followed a period of quiet lasting an hour. Then Company L of the Twelfth infantry, stationed at Ticonohill, saw what appeared to be Villa cavalymen trying to gain a position on a hill opposite on the Mexican side. Firing began, and while machine guns were being sent to the aid of the American riflemen a brisk rifle fire was exchanged. Early in the engagement Littles fell mortally wounded.

Later it became known that the Mexicans were Carranza cavalymen under Col. Lazaro Cardenas, who later took possession of Nogales, Sonora. Gen. Obregon and the American officers later exchanged apologies and regrets.

Tenth Cavalry Arrives.

Part of the Tenth cavalry arrived here shortly after Nogales had been taken by Obregon and the firing across the border stopped. They had ridden 62 miles.

Brig. Gen. George Bell, commanding the provisional brigade made up of the Seventh and Twentieth regiments of infantry, telegraphed that seventeen hundred men had been entrained at Douglas at 4 p. m. today and would arrive before daylight tomorrow. Two batteries of the Sixth field artillery arrived today from Douglas under command of Lieut.-Col. Wm. L. Kenly.

Private Cates was operated on tonight. Notwithstanding he was badly wounded in the abdomen and hip the doctors said the soldier had an even chance for recovery.

Col. Sage Within Instructions.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Early reports from Nogales today indicating that Villa forces might have begun a general attack upon the American border caused considerable anxiety here and it was with evident relief that officials heard the news that the Mexicans had been driven off after a lively exchange of shots.

The state department received the first advice, which were transmitted promptly to President Wilson and Acting Secretary Breckinridge of the war department. Major General Funston, commanding the troops on the border, had not reported on the affair to the war department tonight and officials learned only through press dispatches of the fatal wounding of one of two American soldiers.

Colonel Sage, in command at Nogales, acted within his instructions in having his soldiers promptly return the fire from across the border. He has orders to repel any deliberate attack on American territory and if necessary to use force.

In reporting what happened at Nogales last Wednesday to Secretary Garrison today, General Funston told how several mounted Mexicans rode inside American territory.

"I do not know why they were not shot," he added, "but I presume it was because no responsible officer was on the spot."

Villa Defeated at Hermosillo.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 26.—The forces of Gen. Villa attacking Hermosillo have been decisively defeated, according to Carranza official reports here tonight. Earlier today Hermosillo, brother of the northern leader, reported at Juarez that Villa had captured the capital of Sonora.

SENATOR SIMMONS OF NORTH CAROLINA FOR M'ADOO'S PLAN

FINANCIAL STATEMENT ATTACKED BY SENATOR SMOOT, REPUBLICAN, OF UTAH.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Secretary McAdoo's plan for raising by internal taxes the additional revenue needed by the government to meet a deficit and cover the initial expense of army and navy increases, was endorsed today by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, chairman of the finance committee.

Senator Smoot of Utah, one of the leading republican members of the finance committee, gave out a statement attacking Secretary McAdoo's general financial statement issued yesterday. The Utah senator asserted that all of the secretary's revenue estimates were too high and that for expenditures were too low and that the leading bookkeeping changes had been resorted to.

Differing from his fellow North Carolinian, Representative Kitchin, new majority leader of the house, Senator Simmons announced himself as an advocate of adequate defense and merchant marine legislation and expressed the conviction that the present income tax exemption was far too high and that gasoline and automobiles should share the burden of the war tax. "Although I have not had an opportunity to investigate closely the details of the administration's defense program," said Mr. Simmons, "I approve the general idea which I understand underlies it. With reference to preparedness generally, I think the sentiment of my state will be against what has been termed frenzied preparedness but overwhelmingly in favor of common sense preparedness."

Merchant Marine Needed.

"I think the reasons why the government should provide for a merchant marine are even greater today than when the bill which failed at the last congress was introduced, and I believe that the reasons will be stronger when the war closes than they have been during its continuance. I like very much the suggestion of acquiring ships that may be easily convertible into auxiliaries for the navy. "Assuming that the treasury deficit will be no larger next year than this, it is evident that we will have to provide for raising a considerably larger sum of money. I assume that the present tax on sugar will be continued. I assume that the present war tax will in the main be continued with some possible changes. I think that there will be some additional subjects of taxation. I see the suggestion that gasoline and automobiles should be taxed. Speaking personally, I was in favor of this tax when the present law was under preparation. "I incline also to think that the income tax exemption is too high. It has resulted in less than 500,000 people out of a total of 100,000,000 paying the entire tax derived from incomes. That does not seem to me to be quite fair."

Smoot Says Figures Wrong.

In his statement as to Secretary McAdoo's figures, Senator Smoot asserted that they did not correspond with the daily statement of the United States treasury issued on the date when the secretary's tabulations were begun.

"The apparent increase of $87,164,450 in the treasury balance," said Mr. Smoot, "was in bookkeeping alone and was procured by the transfer from the liabilities to the assets side of the ledger of the disbursing officers' balances and the government bank note redemption fund, both of which always have been recognized as liabilities by the government, and by the inclusion of subsidiary silver coin, minor coins and silver bullion, none of which had ever been reckoned as available to pay the government expenses."

Senator Smoot further declared that when the present administration took over the treasury in March, 1913, there was a net general balance of $149,335,711. On September 30, 1915, he continued, that balance had been diminished by $108,436,816.

While Dr. A. J. Charter Committee Votes to Recommend Change in Form of City Government Committee Appointed to Put Proposed Changes Into Definite Form.

Decision Comes After Long Debate—Five Members Oppose Any Change—Mayor Riggins and Former Commissioner J. A. Littlefield Speak by Invitation—Committee Will Meet Monday.

That a change will be recommended in the details of the Waco municipal government, the exact nature of the proposals yet to be determined, was decided by the delegates to the charter revision committee after heated discussions in four weekly meetings. The motion was worded, "Resolved, That we do make a change in our governmental agencies," and passed by a vote of 13 to 5 at the conclusion of the regular meeting last night.

To put into definite form the proposed changes a committee was appointed, consisting of W. W. Woodson, Second ward, chairman; C. D. Carley, First ward; J. O. Carey, Third ward; Robert H. Rogers, Fourth ward; W. T. Moore, Fifth ward; R. A. Word, Sixth ward, and Seth P. Mills, committeeman-at-large.

Chairman Woodson will call the committee together Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the first meeting. The committee will not be restricted in the nature of its recommendations, but the discussions have hinged around the matter of adopting the city manager plan for Waco and the formation of a citizens' advisory council to represent each ward by five or fifteen members with power to invoke the principles of the initiative, referendum and recall in municipal matters. Throughout the general committee's deliberations, the expert manager plan has been championed by W. W. Woodson and the credit of suggesting the advisory council feature of city government is given to J. R. Spencer.

"My candid opinion of the present charter, after a careful and diligent study of it, is that it is an instrument marked by gross inconsistencies and glaring incompatibilities," declared Mayor J. W. Riggins, who was present and invited to speak. The speakers generally took for their theme the advisability of the city manager plan, last night, with the diverging views centering around the desire to hold to present form with any reforms coming from within rather than by any distinct change of present charter provisions. Speakers protesting any change in form were in a small minority, but made fervent appeals against immediate attempts at revision.

Judge M. C. H. Park said that the matter of the city manager plan was attracting wide attention throughout the country, but he cautioned that the people be given a full chance to think over this suggestion before it was pressed to a vote for the amendment. He declared himself in favor of submitting the question of a city commission whose members should serve without remuneration at once. The city manager plan, the speaker thought, was in line with efficient administration of large sums of public money. The people of Waco are dissatisfied either with the present form of government or else the way it was administered.

R. A. Word declared that at this time he is opposed to any change. "Mr. Woodson's letter from two of the cities whose city manager plan has made them famous, and in both instances the managers of Dayton, Ohio, and Springfield, Ohio, asserted that the city had saved money, that there was no friction in the administration and that the people were pleased with the change."

Charles E. Ashburner, city manager of Springfield, declared that under the expert administration plan the city had saved a net 17 per cent in its expenses, that the tax rate had been cut from $1.31 to $1.25, and that in spite of this decrease the city had cut down its bonded indebtedness by $40,000 and had spent large sums in civic improvements. H. M. Walte, manager of Dayton, the city which is credited with inaugurating the plan in this country, declared that it made municipal expenses less. He also stressed the interest of the people as a necessary factor in efficient administration.

Take Away Appointive Power.

Mr. Woodson declared himself in favor of commissioners serving without remuneration and taking away from them the appointive power, which makes it possible for an official to pay political debts by giving offices to his friends. It is impossible to have expert administration with a commission decentralizing the power and responsibility, he said. He also advocated a citizens' committee to cooperate and bring out for office the best citizens. The city manager plan which has been adopted by seventy-four cities of this country, was the ideal the speaker suggested.

"If you put the right sort of men in the commission you will get expert administration under the present charter provisions," declared Marshall Surratt. He explained that the charter provided for the employment of experts outside of the bounds of Waco, and further insisted that it seemed to him that anything could be gotten "under the present charter except men to carry out its provisions."

"The people of Waco need a good job to drag them out of the mire of politics," concluded Mr. Surratt. He expressed the fear that the dragnet of politics would carry even the city manager plan into the slough of politics, saying that he admitted dissatisfaction under the present form of government but that he had no assurance that it would be otherwise under any of the proposed plans. A movement at present for amendments would hinder progress for two years to come, thought Mr. Surratt.

Judge J. N. Gallagher expressed his opinion that the commission of five men, as at present, would be more democratic than the city manager plan, because five men can come nearer keeping in line with the people's wishes than one man in whom all the responsibility is placed. However, if the people with the power in their hands should stumble along, I am in favor of centralizing it in the city manager," declared Mr. Gallagher. Protesting against putting too much power into the hands of one person, as he considered the city manager plan would do, W. A. Alexander declared the present city commission had the rights to give a good government, but seemed to lack the "nerve." It is impossible to run a political machine, which a city government is in his estimation, on a business basis.

W. J. Geisler, who said that he had been studying the managerial plan for some time as it had originated in Germany, insisted that it was an "autocratic" form of government and not suited to America. He expressed the further fear that if the plan were adopted a suitable man for the place, with all of its concentrated powers and multitude of requirements, could not be found.

Prof. J. M. Wright, of the department of political science of Baylor university, protested that the proposed plan was not in its real essence an autocratic form because the people still held the ultimate power. He cited the present form of the United States and the premier of England as analogous positions in their spheres to that of a city manager. "It is not so much a question of the degree of power conferred upon a man but the amount of responsibility of the body over the individual," declared Prof. Wright.

Mayor Says Charter is a Joke.

Mayor Riggins, having been given permission to address the delegates, made a plea for expert ability in administering the affairs of a great corporation like a city, emphasizing the fact that municipal administration was a profession and that a man needed technical training to be an efficient servant in a high executive position. He then expressed his opinion of the charter, saying that changes were imperative.

"When I have shown this instrument to officials of other cities for their consideration," said the mayor, holding a copy of the Waco charter, "they have given me the horse-laugh." The mayor was of the first to advance aggressively the idea of a city manager for Waco and he emphasized briefly again his views on the matter. Incidentally, he declared that if he knew himself he would never again be a candidate for public office.

"Waco as a matter of fact has a 'commissioner' form of government rather than a commission form," said the mayor, in speaking of the lack of concentration and co-operation under the present system.

Ex-Commissioner J. A. Littlefield, who was present, took exception to a few of the mayor's remarks about incidents under the previous commission administration, and declared himself in favor of the citizens' advisory council as an idea that ought to be pressed.

R. H. Rogers declared himself strongly in favor of Mr. Spencer's plan of the advisory council of representative members, and expressed the wish that the city manager plan be left to this council for settlement. He urged strongly the serving of commissioners without a salary, saying that men of the right calibre could select experts for the different departments without having special training in municipal government themselves.

Then followed the motion to test the delegates as to whether or not a change in the present city government was desired at all or not. By 13 to 5 the committee was recorded favoring some kind of change in the "governmental agencies," the nature of which change or changes not being expressed.

A second motion provided for the appointment of a committee, consisting of one representative from each ward and a seventh to be selected at large. The report of this committee will furnish the subject for the next deliberations of the body, which meets regularly at 8 o'clock each night in the Chamber of Commerce.

Interest Growing in Revival at Columbus St. Baptist Church

Another splendid congregation was present at the meeting last night. Judging from the quiet and attentive way in which the people listen to Dr. Tull's discourses, one is made to believe that every one present, both Christian and sinner, are seriously thinking about his relation toward God.

In his announcements, Dr. Groner said of Dr. Tull: "I have had some strong preachers in this pulpit and he heads and outshines them all, but I do not hesitate to say right here that this preacher ranks with the best of them. I have never heard clearer and plainer preaching." Dr. Tull spoke on "Conversion Illustrations." His discourse was very plain and Biblical. Mr. Cum'rie sang "If Your Heart Keeps Right," Billy Sunday's favorite song.

There will be no services today, but the regular service tonight at 7:30.

COLUMBIA GRAFONOLA

THE Columbia Grafonola is a musical instrument of magnificent range and power, yet capable of the utmost delicacy of expression.

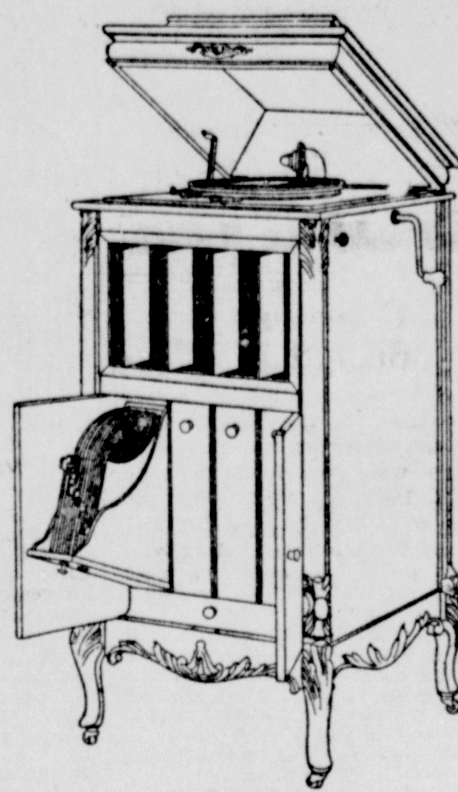

The wonderful Columbia sound-chamber, as responsive to every slightest vibration as the body of a cello; the sensitive Columbia reproducer; the perfected tone-arm and the tone-control "leaves" that operate on the principle of an organ's shutter—all exclusive Columbia features, representing the highest developments of acoustic science—give the Columbia Grafonola a clearness and flexibility of tone not even approximated in any sound-reproducing instrument heretofore devised.

The musicianly qualities of the Columbia Grafonola, and the matchless fidelity of Columbia records have made both pre-eminently the choice of musicians of discrimination. "Hearing is Believing." That is the final test.

USURY REPORTED FROM ALL BUT SEVEN STATES

COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY
SAYS MAJORITY OF BANKS
OBEY THE LAW.

Suggestion Made That Maximum Rate of Interest Be Printed in Statements.

By The Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 29.—In reply to criticisms of the American Bankers' association in connection with his declaration that many national banks charge usurious rates, John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, issued a statement tonight again giving instances of such practices.

Mr. Williams said it was true that a majority of the national banks obeyed the usury laws of the various states but that the reports rendered him showed that this was far from being universally true.

"The only states where there were no national banks which admitted under oath in their statements of September 2, 1915, that they were charging as high as 12 per cent on any of their loans were Mississippi, Connecticut, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin," said the statement. It added that reports of September 2, 1915, showed that 2743 of the 7613 national banks of the country were charging 10 per cent on some loans.

Mr. Williams suggested that hereafter national banks be required to print in their published statements of condition the maximum rate of interest charged. He expressed the hope that the association would work with the comptroller's office to end the practices complained of.

A PERTINENT INQUIRY.

In a circular letter sent out by Clarence Ousley, director of the extension service of A. and M. College, and one who is giving valuable thought to many of the problems confronting the farmers of this state, the following observations on the discrimination against notes and other negotiable instruments given by men engaged in farming and livestock raising, are given:

"Six-months commercial paper was selling in New York last week at 2 1/2 per cent. Five hundred million European war bonds have been sold at 5 per cent. The New York Times of November 10th says: 'The case of borrowing rates for mercantile credit is made of further interest to financial circles because of the pending loans to the allied countries, which are expected to take the form of acceptances. These loans will make an inroad upon the resources of the banks, the extent of which has not yet been determined, and yet money rates show a declining tendency rather than an indication of growing firmness.'

"On the other hand, I have a farmer friend who cannot borrow money from his local banks for less than 20 per cent, though he offers 25 head of cattle and five head of mules (all above his legal exemption) as security for a twelve-months loan of $1,000. Also, he has three vendor's lien notes in the gross amount of $395, on a piece of land which he sold for $700, and he cannot discount them at 8 per cent. "What I want to know is why a small but solvent and successful Texas farmer's paper cannot be sold at less than 20 per cent when a Texas merchant's paper can be sold at 2 1/2, and why Texas land notes cannot be sold at 8 per cent when European war bonds can be sold at 5 per cent.

"I know some of the reasons, but I am putting these questions to Texas people in the hope of stimulating their thinking about a very grave problem which must be solved in the near future if we are not stupidly to invite a dangerous upheaval." "We will not attempt at this time to discuss the matter, desiring merely to throw out Mr. Quisley's observations of the state, no less than the farmers and stock men themselves, may think them over and see what can be done to relieve the situation. A discrimination against agriculture, the foundation of all our wealth, long continued, will prove a ruinous policy and the sooner we correct present conditions the better it will be for all concerned.

According to the New York Times the only time some people aim accurately is when they throw bouquets at themselves.

That community Thanksgiving dinner spread out at Edgefield for the poor of that section of the city shows a thoughtful spirit that reflects credit upon those who conceived and carried out the plan and which is calculated to draw all the people of that neighborhood closer together.

The cotton crop of 1914 was 2,000,000 bales larger than that of 1913, the census bureau reports, but it brought only 80 per cent as much money as did the smaller yield of the year before. Of course the European war had something to do with the low price of last year, but aside from war, a good argument for diversification is furnished in the incident,

KNOWLEDGE OR DESTRUCTION?

It is a bold step to undertake to portray on the stage the awful consequences of sexual disease, yet all those who saw the presentation of "Damaged Goods," the remarkably strong and true story by Charles Brieux of Paris, in this city this week will applaud the author for his clean handling of the subject, the company for its strong presentation of the play, and the producers of the drama for taking the initiative in the movement to banish the ignorance in which our prudery has buried this all-important subject. For surely no one could witness the play and believe that anything but ignorance on the part of men who are victims of the disease, the parents who give their daughters into the hands of men so afflicted, and to other parents who do not instruct their sons and daughters upon this all-important subject, is responsible for the fact that the disease has become so widespread.

No young man wants to maim himself, inflict permanent injury upon his wife and bring children into the world handicapped with an incurable disease, all because of his own folly. The great trouble is that the young men are not informed. They yield to their lusts unmindful, in most cases we believe, of the fact that they are taking their own lives and that of their future wives and children, into their hands in so doing. And back of the ignorance of the young men lies the ignorance and indifference of the fathers who have failed to instruct their sons in the laws of life and in the necessity of their keeping themselves absolutely clean.

But how are we going to diffuse the knowledge that is so sadly lacking at the present time? Some propose that the instruction be given in the public school. Others contend that the home is the proper place for imparting it. While some others think the burden should rest upon the press. Our belief is that there is enough work to be done along this line to call forth the efforts of the schools, the homes and the press and every other educational and social agency. Through the courses in physiology the schools are doing a great deal to inculcate knowledge into the minds of the boys and girls on the injurious effects of tobacco and alcohol, but more fundamental to the health of future generations is a knowledge as to the necessity of personal cleanliness as involved in an observance of the laws of sex, and while these subjects might not be freely discussed in a text-book intended for both sexes, it might easily be arranged for a competent man to lecture to the boys upon the subject and a competent woman to address the girls along the problem as it affects them.

But the ground work for what the schools are to do along this line should be laid in the homes. Parents should be prepared to tell their boys and girls, frankly and fully, the origin of life, taking pains all the while to surround this conception of life with all the sanctity that it truly possesses, and to see to it that this conception of life shall be a holy one rather than the vulgar one which the child is likely to obtain from the street. And it is from the street that the child of today gains most of his knowledge and impressions of his own existence and his functions as related to the propagation of the race.

Young Men's Christian Associations of the country are rendering a valuable service in this direction in having experts address their boys and young men on this subject and giving them full and correct information upon the need of young men keeping themselves as clean as they would have their wives to be. But the Y. M. C. A. can not reach all the people, nor should it be required to assume all the responsibility in this direction. The problem is one that should appeal to all our social agencies and now that the stage has broken the ice on the subject, so to speak, let us hope that other forces will follow up the good work.

Chicago is to observe a widow's tag day. It ought not to be difficult to get the good-looking widows tagged by some widower or bachelor, but as for the others, we are not so certain.

Bell county saloons will close their doors, following the recent local option election, at 9:30 o'clock on Christmas night. From our point of view, no more beneficent Christmas gift could come to our neighbor.

Residents of Stevensport, Wis., added good works to their faith Thanksgiving day when they left a church service and rushed to a fire near by, the 300 worshippers employing snowballs in extinguishing the flames.

Texas Christian University's football team was overwhelmed by Baylor Thursday, but not the spirit of the T. C. U. student body. No more loyal band of supporters, no garner bunch of young men and women, has visited Waco. Defeat is no crushing blow to a crowd like that.

CONVICTIONS IN HIGH PLACES.

Commenting upon the conviction of Munday, the Chicago bank wrecker whose principal plea for acquittal was that he was still in love with his wife in spite of the fact that they had been married thirty years, the San Antonio Light says:

"The conviction of Munday, the Chicago bank wrecker, and his sentence to a term of years in the penitentiary, is a distinct victory for righteousness and good morals in the business world. There may have been cases as flagrant as his, but none that have been more so. He wanted the money and he took it. That seems to be about all there was to his case.

"It is significant that, during his trial, Munday had not a word to say in defense of his own actions. His entire plea consisted of tirades against men who had, he declared, made business hard for him. He was especially critical of the Chicago Tribune, which had exposed the political corruption of his business partner, Ex-Senator William Lorimer. He declared that the exposure of Lorimer had injured the bank, and he blamed the paper because the bank had been injured. It does not seem to have occurred to him that it was Lorimer's connection with the bank that injured it.

"The trials of Lorimer and other officers of the bank will come next. It is difficult to see, in view of the verdict in the case of Munday, how these trials can end otherwise than in similar verdicts. The evidence in the Munday case was as strong against them as against Munday.

"A betrayal of trust is bad enough at all times and places, but if there are any degrees in that particular game it would seem that the highest of them all belongs to the man who induces other people to entrust their money to him, and then steals it. Every time one of that kind is sent 'over the road,' good citizenship, good morals, and good government are endorsed and made stronger."

The Morning News has received an invitation to attend the fair conference and banquet at the St. Anthony hotel in San Antonio next Tuesday night, when the launching of an international mid-winter fair at San Antonio will be considered. We will be unable to accept the invitation, but we hope the plans of the committee of 100 will succeed and that the proposed exposition will mean much for the development of that section of the state.

The McLennan county farmer who fails to put in his appearance in Waco next Tuesday night, partake of the free dinner and assist in celebrating the completion of the good roads system is going to miss something worth while. Waco realizes her large dependence upon the farmers and this is one of her ways of showing her appreciation of what the tillers of the soil have done for her.

One of the latest excuses for bad boys is attributed by an Arkansas editor to modern building methods. He observes that "shingles are scarce and you can't lick a youngster with a tin roof." The living-at-home propaganda is providing the homes with more orchards and a peach-tree limb is much better than a shingle for licking boys, anyhow, for it lasts longer.

We do not doubt the sincerity of Henry Ford, but he was perfectly safe in saying that he would willingly surrender his fortune in order to end the European war by Christmas. He will still be able to play Santa Claus with a few machines if he should decide to try that method of making people happy.

No, Theodosia, we would not advise you to present your sweetheart with a poll tax receipt as a Christmas present. It is against the law in the first place, and then he might think you were dabbling in politics and you should reserve your political operations until after the wedding ceremony.

Optimism is a help under any kind of situation. A prisoner has found consolation in the fact that since he has been in jail he is not bothered of nights by being ordered to get out of bed, go downstairs and see if the back door is locked.

FIRST AERO SQUADRON REACHES SAN ANTONIO

AVIATORS MAKE QUICK TRIP FROM AUSTIN TO THEIR NEW HEADQUARTERS.

Lieut. J. F. Carberry Loops the Loop and Makes Spiral Glide to Earth.

By the Associated Press.
San Antonio, Nov. 26.—The six aviators of the first aero squadron reached San Antonio from Austin this morning without accident, completing the long flight from Fort Sill, Okla. Lieut. J. F. Carberry being the first to arrive, landing on the Fort Sam Houston maneuver field at 9:20 o'clock. Within the next 25 minutes four more of the aviators arrived in the following order: Lieuts. T. D. Milling, I. A. Rader, T. S. Bowen and Capt. B. D. Foulis, commanding. Lieut. C. G. Chapman arrived at 10:10 o'clock.

Capt. Foulis expressed complete satisfaction with the trip. In reporting to Major Walter F. Clark, chief signal officer of the department, he informed him that the only expense to which the government had been put by the flight from Fort Sill, except the outlay for gasoline and oil, was the cost of repairing a bent axle and a broken tail skid. Major Clark and other officers of the department and post staffs complimented Capt. Foulis and the other aviators of the squadron on their record.

The squadron commander said no engine trouble had been experienced on the long journey. This is taken to mean that the special type Curtiss machines which were built by the government and tested on this trip will be accepted for the military aviation service.

Lieut. J. F. Carberry, the first of the aviators to arrive, thrilled the large number of spectators gathered on the field by performing aerial "stunts" before landing. Flying at a height of approximately 4000 feet he "looped the loop" three times and then made a spiral glide to earth.

Needy Mexicans Served Dinner by Baptist Workers

More than a hundred needy Mexicans of the city were provided with a splendid Thanksgiving dinner Thursday afternoon through the efforts of the Baptist Women's Missionary union, composed of the various auxiliaries of the individual Baptist churches of the city. The main dinner, consisting of turkey and all the other things which go to make up a first-class Thanksgiving dinner, was served at the Mexican mission, 113 North Fourth street, at 4 o'clock. Here plates were laid for more than fifty.

An equal number as sat down to the big table, were detained at home by illness, old age and other causes, and bounteous meals were taken to them. Among the number served in this way was one Mexican woman, 109 years old, who is too feeble to leave her home. Mrs. L. O. Haughton, active leader in the mission work since its organization, supervised the dinner. She was assisted by Mrs. Wolfe, Miss Annie Maxwell and Miss Laura Darwin.

Two negro prisoners were the first inducted into the entrance ceremony attendant upon being locked in the new building, being taken and given a hot shower bath and then clothed in the prison uniform.

Many expressions of satisfaction were received today as the people looked over the building and it is expected the laying of the cornerstone and dedicatory ceremonies Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock will be attended by a large number of Falls county people. Judge R. L. Munroe of Waco will make the principal address on the occasion.

Perry Lived in Marlin.

Special to the Morning News.
Marlin, Nov. 26.—Much interest is being taken by Marlin people in the report of the finding of the body of Mrs. Hugh Perry in Dallas, as Hugh Perry is well known in this city and section, having worked in Marlin with the H. & T. Close friends of the family at Reagan advised this afternoon that they had heard of no new developments and were not advised when the funeral would be held, but were of the opinion the arrangements would be held in abeyance for the arrival of Mr. Perry from Houston.

A Hugh Perry registered at one of the hotels in Marlin from Dallas about one week ago, but it is not known whether it was this Perry or not, as there were two of that name in Dallas.

Y. M. C. A. STAGES UNIQUE CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

"One hundred men—One hundred minutes" is the slogan of the novel membership campaign which will be staged by the Young Men's Christian association next Friday. The slogan conveys the unique idea of the campaign which is to add one man a minute to the membership of the association, the campaign to begin at 3 p. m. and close at 4:40 p. m.

The plan employed by Secretary S. R. Hankins to carry out the "100 in 100" idea is to enlist every member of the association to obtain the membership application of one man or boy each. Letters are now being sent out to members of the association requesting their services in the campaign. Each member is also asked to send in the name of the man he will endeavor to sign up during the 100 minutes of the campaign. Trained Y. M. C. A. workers will call on these prospective members to assist in the campaign.

Secretary Hankins is confident that the unique campaign will produce the desired 100 men, if not more, in the 100 minutes.

Trans-Atlantic Line Owned by Americans

By The Associated Press.
Washington, Nov. 26.—The state department was advised today that the American Trans-Atlantic company of New York was securing affidavits from its various stockholders in an effort to prove that none but American citizens and American capital are interested in the corporation's fleet of merchant ships. Several of these vessels flying the American flag have been seized by British cruisers on the ground of suspected German ownership.

Great Britain never has informed the United States of the nature of the evidence upon which it based its charge of suspected German ownership in the company.

WOMEN ASK WILSON TO CALL CONFERENCE

MME. ROSIKA SCHWIMMER AND MRS. ETHEL SNOWDEN MAKE VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE.

Claim Made That Belligerents Would Not Turn Deaf Ear to Neutral Suggestions.

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Efforts to win President Wilson's support for a conference of neutrals to initiate peace proposals in Europe reached a climax today when Mme. Rosika Schwimmer of Hungary and Mrs. Ethel Snowden, wife of a member of the British parliament, called at the white house with a personal appeal and word that they had definite information that the majority of the belligerent nations would not turn deaf ears to suggestions from a neutral gathering.

The women talked with the president for more than half an hour and went away much pleased over their reception, though the president had made no promises.

About 400 peace advocates, fresh from a mass meeting held at a local theatre, accompanied the president's callers to the white house, applauding them as they entered and left the executive offices.

The president was urged to initiate a peace conference or at least to signify that he would appoint a delegate from the United States if another neutral nation called one.

Mme. Schwimmer, who saw the president several months ago on the same subject and who was not optimistic then, said tonight that she believed the president was deeply impressed.

"The president made no definite promise," she added, "but I think you will hear something from the white house before very long." The position of the president is that he has heard nothing from Europe which leads him to believe that the time is opportune to take any step.

At a mass meeting resolutions were adopted urging the president to call upon neutral nations to appoint representatives to attend a conference for "constant mediation, without armistice and dedicated to finding a just settlement of this conflict." The resolutions recite that envoys sent by the international congress of women at The Hague "ascertained from the governments of the belligerent nations of Europe that they would have no objection to the calling of a conference of the neutral nations of the world looking to the possible termination of the war." It was added that the belligerent nations seemed unable themselves to take the initiative for peace.

Mme. Schwimmer was one of the women who visited officials of belligerent and neutral nations several months ago with Miss Jane Addams as their representative.

Addresses were made at the meeting by Mme. Schwimmer, Mrs. Snowden, Mrs. Louisa Post, wife of the assistant secretary of labor, Henry Ford and other peace advocates.

Mrs. Snowden declared that the censorship abroad was preventing the people in this country from knowing of the widespread demand for peace. Mr. Ford's address was very brief. "Out of the trenches by Christmas and never back again is my motto," he said and sat down.

In the campaign which has been carried on for a week to influence the president, about 5,000 telegrams have been received at the white house. They continued to arrive tonight. One of today's messages was from Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the International Suffrage Alliance.

Orient Not Allowed to Issue More Bonds

By The Associated Press.
Topeka, Kan., Nov. 26.—The Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway was refused permission by the Kansas public utilities commission to issue $71,000,000 in stocks and bonds to pay off outstanding debts and reimburse stockholders of the old company, according to announcement made by the commission today. In the showing made to the commission the company listed actual value of all property owned at slightly over forty-five million dollars and actual cost of all property about twenty-seven million dollars.

J. L. Bristow, chairman of the commission, in commenting on the action of that body, said: "To grant this certificate of seventy-one million dollars would mean the commission's consenting to the adding of water to the securities. This is our estimation would be unfair to the citizens of the state. While such proceeding might help the railroad out of its financial difficulties it would injure every other utility in the state."

CROWLEY ARRESTED ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

GOVERNMENT ALLEGES EFFORTS TO DESTROY SHIPS BEARING MUNITIONS TO ALLIES.

Specific Mention Made of Explosion in Seattle Harbor on May 30.

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—Charles C. Crowley, charged with conspiracy to further the destruction of ships bearing munitions of war and supplies for the allies, was arrested late today and arraigned before United States Commissioner Francis Krull. Bail bond was fixed at $500.

Federal authorities kept Crowley under guard for two days with an un-served warrant in their possession in a futile attempt to induce him to tell of the alleged plots.

The complaint filed against Crowley charges him with seeking to further the destruction of ships and docks by fire and dynamite. Three money orders for a total of $350 were mentioned as having been sent to Lewis J. Smith at Tacoma, Wash.

A statement issued tonight by J. P. O'Brien, Crowley's attorney, said that Crowley was investigator in the pay of the German consulate at San Francisco, but denied that Crowley had anything to do with dynamiting operations.

Franz Beppe, German consul general, said tonight he knew Crowley and at time had employed him.

Crowley and Smith, according to the allegations in the complaint, took employment with the Hercules Powder company here last May in order to obtain information regarding the shipment of explosives.

Specific mention was made in the complaint of the explosion on May 30 of fifteen tons of explosives on a barge in Seattle harbor. Damage estimated at $100,000 was done. The explosive was to have been loaded on a steamship bound for Vladivostok.

Federal officials indicated their case would prove to be essential in the prosecution of Lieut. Robert Fay, held on similar charges in New York.

Davis, who has never testified in any of the previous trials growing out of the dynamiting conspiracy for which the McNamara brothers now are serving terms in San Quentin penitentiary, was put on the stand by the prosecution in their effort to connect Schmidt with the crime for which the McNamara brothers were sent to prison. RICHE PLEASED WITH LOCK AND DAM WORK

CONTINUED FAVORABLE WEATHER WILL SPEED CONSTRUCTION COMPLETED SOON.

Part of Dam Subject to Delays on Account of High Water Nearly Completed—Pleased With Progress.

Col. C. S. Riche, U. S. A., engineer in charge of the federal improvements of rivers and harbors of the gulf coast district, made a flying inspection trip to the lock and dam yesterday in company with a party of friends and came back with the optimistic report that conditions for construction on the project had never been so good in two years. If the present weather continues with no rise in the water line, Colonel Riche and Capt. H. F. Harris, local engineer in charge, are of the opinion that the lock and dam will be completed within the next thirty days or six weeks at the most.

After his return last night, Colonel Riche had a conference with Congressman R. L. Henry on the progress of the situation. Colonel Riche will leave for St. Louis this morning for a week's leave of absence.

In the party on the inspection trip with Colonel Riche were Charles Moore, Col. W. W. Seely, ex-Mayor James R. Baker and Jack Ray.

"We've been hoping almost two years for just such ideal weather as we have been having lately, and if these conditions continue, the lock and dam which has been in construction for so long will soon be a completed reality," said Colonel Riche. Having to contend with all the rises and changes in the water has been the leading factor in the time element of completing the structure, he explained. Without the water to contend with the lock and dam simply as a piece of construction work could have been completed in two years' or less time, declared the engineer.

The basic and fundamental parts of the construction project are all completed, said Captain Harris. The foundation of the great concrete dam was obviously the part that the water delayed so materially.

During the absence of Colonel Riche, J. W. Henderson, assistant engineer in the department, will supervise the work. Mr. Henderson is expected to be in Waco in a few days.

The completion of the Waco lock and dam will see the second step toward the eight construction projects that are planned to give Waco navigable water. The new two locks and dams will be at the falls near Marlin and on the river near Hearne.

In speaking to the negroes on the development of their race, the speaker was emphatic in his declaration that the negro should remain in the South and work out his own salvation. He pleaded that the negroes should have a more aggressive attitude toward establishing schools for vocational training, and said they should turn themselves for doing efficient manual work.

Judge Terrell is making a speaking tour during his vacation and was brought to Waco under the auspices of the St. Paul A. M. E. church, an organization formed to secure relief for the old and decrepit negro women. He spoke Wednesday night in San Antonio and left Waco last night for an address in Beaumont tonight.

Army and Navy Teams Meet This Afternoon

By The Associated Press.
The football eleven of the United States navy and military academies will close the eastern griddiron season with their annual contest here tomorrow afternoon. The teams point to a hard-fought game under poor weather conditions before the large assembly of spectators to witness this football classic since the initial struggle in 1890.

President Wilson, who will be accompanied here by a large party of personal friends, will occupy a special box on the navy side of the field for one-half of the game. The griddiron to the army section between halves. The president will thus avoid indicating any preference in the football battle of the rival branches of the service.

There has been considerable wagering on the outcome of the game. Early betting favors the cadets slightly. Odds of 5 to 4, but there are indications that if the teams line up on a water-soaked field the soldiers are likely to be quoted at 10 to 7 or possibly 5 to 3.

RURAL TEACHERS FORCED TO DISCOUNT VOUCHERS

FAILURE OF STATE TO PAY FUNDS CREATES SERIOUS CONDITION.

Trustees of County Districts Petition Commissioners' Court to Arrange for Full Payment.

Many teachers over the county have been forced to discount their salary vouchers, according to reports made yesterday at a meeting of the county school trustees, held at the county court house. After discussing the matter at length, it was decided to petition the county commissioners to arrange with some bank so that the vouchers can be cashed at face value in the future.

There were almost fifty trustees here for the meeting and they reported that attendance was good almost every place. County Superintendent R. L. Abbott was very much pleased with the reports received.

The petition to the county commissioners' court was as follows:

"To the Honorable Commissioners' Court of McLennan County: We, the undersigned school trustees of McLennan county, common school districts and independents, having fewer than 150 scholars, feel that it is our duty to the teachers of the schools in said districts to use every effort within our power as trustees to arrange in some way for the teachers to receive their money promptly at the end of the month without being forced to pay discount. We hereby petition your honorable body to make an arrangement with some bank to take care of the situation so that the teachers will not be put to an inconvenience and an expense when their teachers' checks become due. Respectfully,

G. B. Griffith, Ed Hoffmeyer, E. Leuchner, D. R. Gurley, W. C. Webb, M. R. Box, M. L. Bongard, C. M. Eichen, J. A. Hildner, R. F. Brown, C. H. Gorman, A. P. Chapman, John Schallack, W. R. Gelson, Joe Farmer, P. J. Steele, William Gropp, Robert Baese, R. D. Culppeper, W. A. Lamb, A. H. White, W. T. Rogers."

White Man Charged With Stealing From Sleeping Roommate

Charged with extracting $20 from the trousers of his roommate while he slept, J. T. Gates, young white man, was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police Guy McNamara. Captain J. T. Hair, naval recruiting officer, furnished information which led to finding Gates.

J. C. Owens, a young white man who lives in Coryell county, is the complaining witness, alleging that while he and Gates were occupying the same room in a Waco hotel last Wednesday night, Gates took a $20 bill out of his trousers while he was asleep and made off with it. Owens suspected that Gates would try to enlist in the navy, and furnished his description to Captain Hair, in charge of the local recruiting office. Mr. Hair compared the description with the notations on enlistment applications received within the last few days, and found one which coincided. Officers went to the street address given in the application and arrested Gates. He denies having taken the money from Owens.

Local Cotton Receipts.

Receipts of cotton yesterday by Sam Nix, public weigher, were 217 bales. Prices paid ranged from 11c to 11 1/2c. Basis middling brought 11 1/2c.

It Itches Awful, Dorothy Bernard Gives Her Word

Talk about the vicissitudes of a movie actress! Dorothy Bernard, who appears with William Farnum in "The Broken Law," believes that she has had her share of them. Miss Bernard plays the part of Ursula in this latest William Fox photoplay masterpiece, which was written and produced by Oscar C. Apfel, who has directed many of the Fox successes.

"The Broken Law" deals with a delightful romance of gypsy life in England in the early fifties. One scene calls for the rescue of Miss Bernard after she has fallen into a river from a bridge which she is crossing by automobile. The scene was carefully rehearsed by Mr. Apfel and everything went smoothly, but when the picture was being made the automobile threw a shoe and the young actress was prematurely precipitated into the water.

Mr. Farnum, playing the part of Daniel Esmond, plunged into the water and rescued her. While none of those concerned in the accident would care to have it repeated, its unexpectedness lent indescribable realism to the scene.

In another part of "The Broken Law," Miss Bernard is tied to a tree and lashed by the gypsies. Dick Neill, as Gaspar, entered so fully into the spirit of the action that he wielded the whip without sparing the force of the blows. Miss Bernard fainted during the ordeal, and was resuscitated only after the services of a physician had been procured.

"I don't complain about the auto accident or the lashing," explains Miss Bernard. "The camera caught both incidents, and so they were not without compensation. But something did happen which the camera didn't get. That was when I made my exit from one exterior scene and wandered into a poison ivy bed that was in full bloom. There were at least 500 vines, and I touched every one of them. In fact, I must have touched some of them twice. I didn't know it was poison ivy at the time, but I have known it ever since, and that was several weeks ago. If I were to have my choice I would submit to torture by the rats in 'The Pit and the Pendulum' rather than encounter even one little sprig of poison ivy."

THEATRES

AUDITORIUM.

Making An Audience Laugh.

Miss Jean Webster, author of "Daddy Long-Legs," says that the most surprising thing to an author who sees her first play produced is the fact that the audience won't laugh when it is told to do so and will laugh when it is supposed not to. Making the audience behave, as it were, rather interested Miss Webster while she watched the first performance of her comedy. Miss Webster found that a few changes occasionally brought the desired result, but had not always the desired effect.

One line in "Daddy Long-Legs" at which the audience always roars was never put in with the idea of bringing out a laugh. It is where Jimmie McBride says to Judy, "I understand you freshmen are not allowed to dance tonight?"

"No," replies Judy, "the gymnasium isn't big enough."

"Just why does the audience find this so funny?" inquires Miss Webster. "I never intended it to be. The audiences have laughed at it in every city where we have played 'Daddy Long-Legs.' It must sound mirthful because those in front imagine that Judy means to convey the idea that freshmen activity and spirit requires more room in which to expand. Really the reason is because at most girls' colleges the upper classes are so big that there is not room for all to dance, and the first year classes are debarr'd in order not to crowd the dancing floor to suffocation."

"Daddy Long-Legs" is filled with speeches where a pathetic line is directly followed by what is called a "comedy break" or in other words a humorous relief to the more serious line before it. Miss Webster thinks the audience becomes so accustomed to taking a cue for laughter from the serious lines that mirth becomes a habit and the people in the seats in front often laugh because they think they ought to. One instance where laughter is expected and seldom makes itself heard is in the first act where Judy tells of the mischievous infants who have put the guinea pigs in the bath tub. This gets a big laugh, but when Judy says "It's so seldom used," usually not a ripple is started, yet the line is really amusing.

Henry Miller will present "Daddy Long-Legs" at the Auditorium tonight.

HIPPODROME.

"The Broken Law."

William Farnum, one of the famous trio of Farnum brothers so well known on the stage and in the pictures, is a wonderful success in his latest play, "The Broken Law," that is produced by the Fox company and will show at the Hippodrome.

Mr. Farnum, who is said to draw the sum of $100,000 a year for his work in the Fox features, says he has never regretted deserting the speaking stage, and though he may return at some later day, certainly not at any time soon. He has already appeared in such Fox successes as "The Nigger," "The Wonderful Adventure," and others. Dorothy Bernard, who plays the part of Ursula, the gypsy girl who is wronged, made a very recent success in the Fox play, "The Little Minister." During the making of this last picture, "The Broken Law," Miss Bernard had been working all day on interior scenes while the temperature because of the glass top studios was crowding 125; when she had escaped from the debauchee, Lord Duncan, and staggered half-fainting out of range of the camera, the director shouted "Good work! Good work!" but to Miss Bernard the faint was no work at all. It was very real and she proved it by collapsing at once and was not able to resume work until the next day.

The story deals with the life of the gypsy in 1850, and is based on their moral laws that decreed a man and woman who were guilty of disregarding the moral law should be flogged, branded, and banished from the camp. Esmond, a young English author in search for his half sister, became a chief of a gypsy band. He loved Isabel, a girl who had been promised to a prodigal lord. A gypsy girl, Ursula, was found to be wronged, and Esmond's enemy, Gaspar, laid the crime at his door. Accordingly the two were branded and flogged from the camp. Isabel, in the meantime, fled from her home to escape Lord Duncan, but finding her in the gypsy camp, her father led her back to the church to wed Duncan. There they found Esmond and Ursula, and an amazing discovery that leads to the climax is one of tremendous surprise and interest. "The Broken Law" will play at the Hippodrome today only.

Much-Wanted Negro Captured by Police

George Lawson, alias John Lowe, negro burglar of parts, was arrested yesterday by City Detective R. H. Hall. Search of a house from which the negro was emerging when captured by Detective Hall, and a round of pawn shops uncovered a large variety of property which has been the loot of a burglar in five places in the city within the last week. Lawson is in the city jail.

The five burglaries which are ascribed by police to Lawson covered a period of one week. The house occupied by Willie Ware, negro, on South Second street, was the first of the series to be entered. Here the burglar obtained $10 in money and a woman's cloak. The Barkley blacksmith shop on South Second was entered the next night, and among the things taken was a powerful bolt clipper, which the burglar used to cut padlocks off doors in subsequent burglaries. The Ware negro was for the second time a loser by reason of the burglar's operations the next night, when the automatic player piano in the restaurant conducted by her at First and Webster was broken open and robbed of the coins in the cash box. The cleaning and tailoring shop belonging to Joe Hull, negro, 195 Webster street, was entered the next night several suits of clothes and a small handbag being taken. The tailor shop conducted by Ernest Waite at 315 South Sixth street was the final victim. More clothes and another handbag being taken.

Baylor "Pep" Prolongs Thanksgiving Holiday

College enthusiasm raised to a high pitch by the victory Thursday afternoon over Texas Christian university prolonged the Baylor Thanksgiving holiday over yesterday. A delegation of students called on President Brooks Thursday afternoon following the football game and asked that Friday also be observed as a holiday in honor of the overwhelming victory over T. C. U. and the consequent winning of the state football championship. Dr. Brooks gave his consent, hence no classes met in the university lecture rooms yesterday.

A monster "pep" meeting in the new grandstand was the public event of the day. More than 500 students gathered in the grandstand to listen to enthusiastic speeches from members of the champion Bear eleven and faculty members, to sing college songs and yell, and otherwise give vent to the enthusiasm which has this week been worked to the highest pitch known around the university. A number of alumni and former students who remained over a day after homecoming were present at the meeting, and Dr. C. D. Daniels, one of the distinguished alumni speakers for the homecoming festivities, delivered a short and enthusiastic address.

E. J. Harrell, unanimously chosen by critics as "all-state manager," presided at the meeting, introducing the speakers. Captain "Jack" Norris of this year's eleven was the first speaker, expressing his gratitude to the students for their unexcelled support of the team, and his pleasure at having been able to lead a championship team. He predicted great things for Baylor's eleven next year, and told the students it was only necessary to maintain the Baylor spirit which has been developed to a high stage this year to assure the Green and Gold's supremacy on every field. The ovation that greeted Captain Norris testified that he is one of the most popular captains that ever led a Baylor team.

Other members of the championship eleven who spoke were "Happy" Crosslin, John Reed, "Elv" Isaacks, "Yank" Wilson, Frank Soape, "Little" Fouts and Harry Nigro. Isaacks, center, and Nigro, guard, are the only members of the Baylor 1915 team who will be lost through graduation.

Great enthusiasm was aroused by the signing of the contract with Baylor to coach the Bear backfield again next year. The contract was signed publicly in the grandstand at the meeting yesterday morning. Baylor is given a great deal of credit for developing the Baylor backfield into the best in the state. Announcement was also made at the meeting yesterday that the contract calling for a game with Texas university in Austin on Oct. 28 had been signed. Manager Harrell announced that several this year's stars on high school and secondary college teams of the state would enter Baylor and play on the 1915 team. Included in these are Roynton and Charles, who are Baylor this year in order to be eligible for the 1916 team.

Boy Auto Bandits Get Suspended Sentences on Charges of Burglary

Three boys from Houston who escaped to be "auto bandits" pleaded guilty to burglary in the fifty-fourth district court yesterday, there being three cases against each of them. They were given two years suspended sentences in each case. Published reports that the boys were indicted for murder are erroneous, burglary being the charge in each instance.

With two other boys, the defendants, John Riley, Charles Anderson and Robert Shurter, got possession of an auto at Houston, drove across country to Waco and burglarized three stores in one night, several months ago. As they were leaving town, Mounted Officers Abbott and Clay gave chase, but being unable to catch the auto, telephoned to the city hall and Assistant Chief Charlie James and other officers took up the pursuit in another automobile.

The youngsters were picked up near McGregor and brought back to Waco. No indictments were returned against two of the gang, but three against the remaining members, whose extreme youth and penitence won them suspended sentences yesterday.

Library Has Books of Information on Public Health

Pamphlets and bulletins of the state department of health have been secured by the public library and are now available to individuals interested in matters of public health. Investigations which have been made by the health department are summarized in the publications, and the latest scientific methods of treatment for pellagra, tuberculosis, infantile diseases and the like are given.

In addition to the publications from the Texas department, bulletins from the federal departments are also available at the library. These are in line with the recent movement for greater sanitation and disease prevention, which has swept the country, and which has lately been a live issue in Waco.

Miss Pauline McCauley, public librarian, has been working on the matter of securing all possible public documents on health and disease prevention for some time, but only the last day or so has been able to get the complete publications of the Texas health department.

Garnishment Suit in District Court Interesting Case

An interesting case was decided in the Seventy-fourth district court yesterday when Judge Erwin J. Clark gave the Central Texas Exchange National bank a judgment on garnishment against the North British and Mercantile Insurance company for $400, and also perpetuated the injunction against P. Klaras, collecting the $400 from the insurance company, suit to that effect having been filed in the county court.

The bank sued Klaras on a note, obtaining a judgment. A house belonging to Klaras burned, and he brought suit against the North British Mercantile Insurance company for $400, the amount of the policy. In order to get this insurance money, the bank garnished the insurance company and obtained an injunction against any further action on the policy by Klaras.
